

One Killed Others Injured in Minneapolis Strike as Drivers Threaten Disorder

National Guard Auto Crashed Into Sedan at Intersection

Minneapolis, July 31—(AP)—One man was killed and four others were injured today when a National Guard squad car, running through a traffic signal to where strike pickets were reported dumping a farmer's truck, crashed a small sedan.

Three troopers were hurt. Carl Wallin, driver of the sedan, was killed and his companion, not immediately identified, was rushed to a hospital with a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

Shortly afterward, Gov. Floyd B. Olson, unaware of the accident, issued a statement saying the truck drivers strike, which prompted him to place the city under military rule, represents "the struggle between recovery and the chiselers," he added.

"I shall expect every employer in the city who moves merchandise by truck to pay the wage scale determined by Father Haas and Commissioner Dunnigan to be a fair wage scale for those affected by their proposal."

The Rev. Francis Haas and E. H. Dunnigan, federal mediators, had proposed 42 1-2 cents an hour for inside workers, helpers and platform men and 52 1-2 cents an hour for drivers. This the employers' advisory committee rejected recently.

The chief executive said he "expected" this "in order to place responsibility and to give the public a chance to deal with the chiselers."

"I shall also expect such employers to reinstate employees as of the date of the strike, union and non-union men alike," he said, "on the basis of seniority. If any union man desires to return to work it should be his option."

Meanwhile leaders of striking truck drivers today threatened defiance of military rule imposed here by Governor Floyd B. Olson.

Strikers will use force to halt trucks, their leaders warned, unless the movement of all trucks is stopped for 48 hours.

Threatened Force

William Brown, president of union No. 574, and other strike leaders made the demand to Olson last night. Unless this condition is met today, they said, the strikers would resort to force to halt trucks regardless of whether they have military permits.

Adjutant General E. A. Walsh earlier had indicated he expected to have virtually every truck in the city operating today. Strike leaders took the attitude the policy of issuing permits to new classes of vehicles each day apparently was designed to break the strike.

They demanded the right to have a voice with the National Guard in revising the permit system during the next 48-hour period in which they insisted no trucks should move.

Troops watched highways and freight yards for 500 Communists reported headed for Minneapolis from the west.

IN "HITLER ROLE"

Washington, July 31—(AP)—Senator Schall (R. Minn.) charged in a formal statement today that Governor Olson had "assumed the role of Hitler" by declaring martial law in Minneapolis.

"Steel-helmeted troops are now marching down the main streets of my home town of Minneapolis, as in Berlin and Rome," Schall said. "The city government of Minneapolis is short of its chartered rights and made the creature of a military rule, as the cities of Italy and Germany and Russia."

Asserting that the "context" for the declaration of martial law was "a state of insurrection" Schall asked:

"Is there any insurrection there except that of the mailed fist?"

Ahead of Deadline

Schall said Olson had declared martial law 40 minutes ahead of the deadline he had set for an agreement on the truck drivers' strike.

"Was he afraid that if he waited until 1 P. M., the hour named by him, the parties would get together and settle grievances—and thereby deprive him of the pretext of declaring himself one man dictator by the mailed fist?" Schall asked.

Schall added the business men of Minneapolis were called upon to plead guilty, and thereafter have a hearing and trial.

"And because they would not agree to immediate surrender on all issues at 1 P. M.," he asserted, "Floyd B. Olson assumes the role of Hitler at 12:20, for fear 1 P. M. might bring a settlement which would defeat his prepared military feat."

No Sale to Communists

The employers' advisory committee today issued a statement declaring settlement by them of the truck drivers' strike "without first settling the fundamental issue would be to sell out the city to the communists."

"Nothing has been said or proposed in the last 24 hours that alters—or should be allowed to obscure—the real issue of the strike," said the statement, "namely, that any settlement so far suggested"

COUNCIL GETS ORDINANCE FOR SEWAGE SYSTEM

Filed For Week: City to Protest Importing of Laborers

An unusually interesting session of the city council was held last evening, attended by only a small gallery of spectators. As the outgrowth of a complaint registered with the council, Mayor Dixon today registered a protest with the district chairman of the Federal Re-Employment bureau at Freeport against the importation of trucks and truckers from outside of Lee county to be employed on local projects.

Commissioner John Loftus told the council that he had been informed that trucks owned by Sam McNeil and V. Prew of Prophetstown in Whiteside county were being operated on the Lowell park road. He contended that trucks and truckers were available in Dixon and Lee county and opposed the practice of contractors hiring equipment and operators from other counties to work on local projects.

Leaders of the striking truck drivers issued an ultimatum to Gov. Floyd B. Olson that unless all trucks are halted for 48 hours, they will stop them by force.

The Chicago stockyards strike threatened to spread to the packing plants, but Gen. Hugh S. Johnson was reported unofficially to be planning personal intervention.

The Pacific coast longshoremen's strike became history as the 12,000 strikers turned back to the docks today and other maritime workers signified their readiness to return to work, turning over their grievances to arbitrators.

Longshoremen on the Great Lakes also ended their eight-week strike returning to work today to await negotiations.

Striking union employees of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Street Railway voted to accept the company's settlement offer and return to work today.

An agreement was reached between workers and operators of the Republic Iron & Steel Company at Warren and Niles, Ohio, with 13 tin plate mills opening today pending adjustment of an accord between the company and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel & Tin Workers.

Quiet prevailed under National Guard rule of the model industrial village of Kohler, Wis., but federal mediators reported that the stage was not yet set for permanent settlement of the strike at the Kohler company plumbing equipment plant.

Five Dixon boys ranging in ages from 9 to 12 years were being rounded up by the police this morning to be questioned concerning a robbery which was staged at the high school Saturday afternoon.

One of the group confessed to Chief Van Bilbrey and Principal E. J. Fraser at the police station this morning, implicating the others.

Two windows in the north side of the building were shattered to gain entrance and the window in the door of the office was also broken to gain access to that room. According to the report of the robbery, desks and class rooms were ransacked and other depredations committed in the building. Several combinations, locks, fountain pens, automatic pencils and some jewelry was reported missing.

In the confession of one of the boys, these articles were thrown in the lagoon at the high school athletic field and in the river.

One of the youths implicated in Saturday's high school robbery, police stated, had been implicated in a cigarette theft Friday and several other robberies of recent date.

Accident Victim

Former Dixonite

James Brew, who was fatally injured in an automobile crash at Stoughton, Wis., Sunday evening, was well known in Dixon. Five years ago he was employed in the clothing department of the Montgomery Ward store in this city. He had left the employ of that firm, however, and recently had been employed by a Stoughton ice cream manufacturing firm. In the accident which resulted in his death and that of a young woman companion, Mr. Brew sustained a skull fracture, the dislocation of his right shoulder and internal injuries. The accident happened Sunday night near Stoughton when the driver of a second car failed to stop before entering a state highway.

City Ready to Settle

It was stated that the city was ready to deliver to Hughes a check amounting to approximately $130, which the contractor stated he would not accept as payment in full of his claim, but would accept as part payment. Commissioner Loftus suggested that Hughes take his bill into the court, where if it were decided that the city was liable for the amount, it would be paid to the contractor, and again denied that he had authorized the gasoline and oil bill.

Hughes then told the council that his health had become impaired by the operation of the air compressor last winter and that he was forced to consult a physician and was at the present time receiving treatment for his

FRANCE ALARMED BY SICKNESS OF VONHINDENBURG

See Absolute Powers for Hitler: Aged German Arises

Paris, July 31—(AP)—The illness of President von Hindenburg today alarmed the French government, on the behalf of which a spokesman said that his death would create "a very difficult situation."

Officials said they assumed Chancellor Hitler, in the event of von Hindenburg's death, would seek the Presidency, thereby giving himself a free rein in German affairs.

Neudeck, Germany, July 31—(AP)—President Paul von Hindenburg's attending physicians—Prof. Auerbruch, Dr. Krauss Adam, and Prof. Kauffman—issued the following bulletin at 1 P. M.:

"The Reich's President this morning took breakfast outside his bed. As he did so, he showed a complete understanding of what was going on about him. After returning to bed he fell into a quiet sleep. His pulse was strong although numerically higher."

Should the president die, Dr. Erwin Bumpke, president of the German supreme court, would become interim president under the law.

A high foreign office official said, however:

"While this law still stands, do not forget the Hitler government holds emergency powers enabling it to do almost anything. It all depends, therefore, on Hitler's personal will, whether the law coming from the supreme court justifier shall be applied or whether some other disposition shall be made of the question of succession."

OHIO METHODIST CONFERENCE MAY FACE COURT ACT

Bondholders Asked to Join Suit Against Hospital Assn.

St. Louis, July 31—(AP)—After assailing the Methodist Episcopal church for permitting bond defaults while financing foreign missions, William C. Bittling, Jr., an investment banker, today took preliminary steps toward a suit against the Ohio Methodist Conference.

In a letter to holders of $630,500 in defaulted bonds of the White Cross Hospital Association of the Ohio Methodist Conference, Bittling asked them to deposit the bonds so that a designated committee could file suit against the conference.

The White Cross hospital is in Columbus, O.

Bittling said that in its last two fiscal years Ohio Methodism collected about $569,508 for missions, while defaulting on $55,701 in interest alone on the hospital debt. "Protests to this 122-year-old pivotal conference of Methodism against the default have been in vain," Bittling said, "although right thinking Ohio Methodists as well as bondholders have tried to get something done."

The letter said the suit would ask judgment for the total $630,500 and accrued interest.

Forgery of Relief Orders is Charged Against Three Men

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—Charged with forging grocery orders to persons not entitled to relief, two grocers and the head clerk of a relief station were under arrest today.

Those taken into custody yesterday were Edward J. Nix, 40, clerk; Anton Peterson, 48, manager of a chain grocery store, and Mrs. Anna Cursky, 37, grocery store owner.

A. L. Sloan, reporter for the Chicago Evening American, was ordered to appear in court today to face charges of contempt of court for refusing to disclose sources of his information for stories he wrote charging graft and fraud in relief administration.

Three Lawyers Get Million and Half for Getting Refund

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—Three attorneys who spent seven years in the case were awarded a fee of $1,525,000 for obtaining refunds of $30,700,000 from the Illinois Bell telephone company.

The lawyers are George I. Haight, Benjamin F. Goldstein and Edmond D. Adcock. Their award was ordered by the federal court.

The company's quarterly statement reported a deficit of $523,258 for the first six months of 1934, despite omission of the May 31 dividend, compared with a deficit of $1,594,739 at the same time last year.

COAST GUARD IS PROBING REPORT OF LAKE PIRACY

Six Armed Bandits Reported Aboard Big Pleasure Craft

Chicago, July 31—(AP)—An anonymous tip that pirates were aboard the excursion steamer "City of Grand Rapids" bound for Milwaukee sent Coast Guards after the vessel today but its master radioed a message: "Everything okay."

The Coast Guards, nevertheless, were ordered to proceed on an investigation, on the theory that bandits might have forced the ship's operator to send the reassuring message.

The guardsmen had been placed on edge by the robbery of two launches in the lake off the Chicago shore during the past week.

In both cases robbers had boarded the boats carrying passengers to and from the World's Fair and had stripped the occupants of their cash and valuables.

The "City of Grand Rapids" steamed out of Chicago with 800 passengers aboard at 10:10 A. M. central daylight saving time, and had proceeded approximately 30 miles toward Milwaukee when "an excited man" telephoned a report

Brilliant Idea Of Cycling Fans Fell on Deaf Ears—

Joliet, Ill., July 31—(AP)—There will be no bicycle club at the state penitentiary.

Warden Frank Whipp made that decision today.

Ten prisoners of the so-called "money class" had petitioned him to authorize formation of the cycling society. The applicants pointed to the 37 acres within the walls available for this form of diversion.

But the warden decided the plan was unfeasible. The inmates, he said, could not keep their vehicles in their cells and who could say but what they might be seized with the impulse to dash down some road to freedom.

Officials Alarmed

Officials of the Chicago-Milwaukee Steamship Line, owners of the ship, became alarmed and dispatched a wireless query to Captain Morgan.

The master radioed this terse reply: "everything okay."

Coast Guard patrols from Milwaukee, Racine and Chicago sped toward the vessel at noon from their bases.

Officials, acting on the theory that the wireless operator of the "City of Grand Rapids" may have been compelled to send the reassuring message under threat of the patrol cutters.

E. J. Weimer of the steamship line said a daring attempt to loot the 310-foot craft, one of the largest pleasure ships operating on the Great Lakes, seemed "impossible."

She carries a crew of 120 men while the bandit party was reported to number only six.

Ogle Man Eluded Officers Monday

About 6:30 last evening Sheriff Frank Murray of Oregon requested local police to be on the lookout for an old car in which Leroy Burke and family of Mt. Morris were riding and to place Burke under arrest. The report from Oregon stated that Burke had engaged in a fight with his father-in-law at the latter's home in Mt. Morris, after which he loaded his family into an old car.

The Ogle county sheriff reported that Burke then drove to a Mt. Morris filling station where he flourished a shot gun and compelled the attendant to fill his gasoline tank, then drove away. Local officers guarded the highways for some time but the car did not come to Dixon.

Carthage Publisher-Postmaster is Dead

Carthage, Ill., July 31—(AP)—John P. Beckman, 66, Postmaster and publisher of the Hancock County Journal died suddenly of heart disease at his home early today. He had attended business yesterday. Beckman had 20 years as owner of the Journal for 20 years and was named postmaster last year. He was a Mason a member of the bar and a civic leader.

March of Bootleggers to U. S. Prisons Beginning as Federal Force Starts to Hit Its Stride

Washington, July 31—(AP)—Although the population of federal prisons has slumped by nearly 5,000 Director Sanford Bates disclosed today that he is holding all his equipment in readiness for a new influx of bootleggers.

As the treasury's new whiskey squad hits its stride in enforcing the revenue laws, officials believe, the number of federal convicts may start growing again.

As a matter of fact, liquor law violators are being sent to federal prison at a greater rate just now

Dollfuss' Assassin and Leader of Putsch Die on Gallows Praising Hitler

Condensed News from Austria and Nearby Neighbors

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Nazi who led conspirators into the office of Chancellor Dollfuss last Wednesday and the accomplice who pulled the trigger on the gun which killed the government leader were both hanged today for high treason by sentence of a court martial.

They went to their death saying: "What we did, we did for our country."

While the punishment for treason was being meted out, the new government headed by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg strove against a renewed bombing campaign to restore peace in Austria.

Injected into the Austrian situation also was an indication by official quarters in Belgrade that Yugoslavia resents the idea of Italy playing a lone hand in guaranteeing Austrian independence. It was said that the Yugoslavian government held that the question of Austrian independence was a matter for all of Austria's neighbors who should be consulted before any steps are taken.

An Italian spokesman in Rome said Italy was not perturbed by the Belgrade statement and that it had not been Italy's idea to play a lone hand in the Austrian situation.

The two Nazis sentenced to death in Vienna were Otto Planetta, a former army sergeant, and Franz Holzweber. They were found guilty of high treason in connection with the assassination of Austria's chancellor, Engelbert Dollfuss.

With their revolt all but stamped out, the Nazis started a new reign of terror by exploding bombs in various parts of Austria. Explosions were reported both in the provinces and in Vienna.

The new government headed by Dr. Schuschnigg struck a heavy blow at the Nazis, ordering them placed in concentration camps at hard labor, their property to be confiscated.

Berlin newspapers predicted that the Schuschnigg cabinet would not last. It stands on "weaker feet" than the Dollfuss ministry, one newspaper said.

The French reaction to the Yugoslav statement on Austrian independence was understood to be a notice by Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, to Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania to "keep hands off. Leave decisions to the big powers."

MORBID CURIOUS KEPT AWAY FROM DRESSER RITES

Only Hundred Friends Permitted at Actress' Funeral

Hollywood, Calif., July 31—(AP)—The curious, morbid souvenir seekers and the general public will be barred today as grief-stricken friends and associates carry Marie Dressler to the grave.

Remembering the unfortunate scenes which have attended the last rites for some of the film colony's great stars—Rudolph Valentino, Barbara La Marr and Lillian Tashman—officials of the MGM studio, where the comedienne made her famed pictures, announced that about 100 persons would attend the services.

The funeral will be held in the Wee Kirk of the Heather, a picturesque chapel in suburban Glen Dale.

Most of those attending will be intimate friends of the actress in accordance with the wishes of her three closest friends, Frances Marion, the scenarist who wrote the stories of her pictures, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Walker of Santa Barbara, at whose estate the actress died Saturday.

His Last Words

"Avoid further bloodshed. Rintelen must make peace."

Raising his voice, the defense counsel cried:

"That was Chancellor Dollfuss' real last will and testament!"

The attorney told the court that armed rebellions unfortunately usually bring death to someone "but those who participate in them cannot be called bandits and common murderers as these defendants today have been called. It is customary to call such persons 'rebels.'"

The final moments of the court martial, when Dollfuss' slayer was asked if he had any last word, were intensely dramatic.

The stuffy, small courtroom was overcrowded with newspapermen, soldiers, police and court attaches, all hushed in sudden silence.

Planetta rose from his seat between two armed wardens. He clicked his heels and straightened his shoulders as he snapped into attention.

Slayer's Statement

"I don't know," he said in a loud, clear voice, "how many hours I have to live, but, before I go, I should like to say this:

"I am no cowardly murderer. But what I did, I did out of love for my country."

"But I also want to say this: I did not mean to kill Chancellor Dollfuss and for that reason I am sorry."

"And for that, I beg forgiveness."

Then Holzweber—who was seen repeatedly on the balcony of the chancellery on the Ballhausplatz Wednesday and who then wore an officer's uniform of the Deutschmeister regiment and stood beside the captured Major Fey, Austria's minister of security—stood up in his shabby, grey prison uniform. He said:

Holzweber's Plea

"I undertook the leadership of the Ballhausplatz raid only after I had been assured that Anton Rintelen (pro-Nazi minister to Italy)

Blue Eagle, Year Old Tomorrow, Is At Crossroads; Fate of NRA Still to be Fully Determined

Washington, July 31—(AP)—The blue eagle, one year old tomorrow, is at a crossroads, NRA's future is still to be determined.

Changes are in the making. Suggestions have ranged from Hugh S. Johnson's idea that a board, instead of one man, should manage his job, to a demand by Senator Nye (R. ND.) that NRA be deprived of price fixing and other fair practice powers and they be placed under the federal trade commission, with the anti-trust laws in full effect.

The next congress, which meets in January, will have the task of determining NRA's future.

The blue eagle is slightly younger than the NRA. It was born on August 1, 1933.

It started life as a merit badge to employers who signed President Roosevelt's re-employment agreement (PRA) for shorter hours, higher pay and no child labor.

Today, as it turns one anniversary, it symbolizes the vow of countless industrial code signers to comply with NRA's rules of fair competition.

DOLLFUSS' ASSASSIN

would arrive immediately after we captured the Dollfuss cabinet with the full authority from President Miklas to take over the government.

I undertook the command under the definite understanding that there must be no bloodshed and no harm done any cabinet member. The only objective was the capture of Dollfuss and the cabinet.

"I emphasize that we did what we did for the love of our country."

The court overruled the defense counsel's plea to bring Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, Odo Neustader, Stummer and the former German minister to Austria into the courtroom as witnesses.

The defense idea was to have them substantiate Fey's testimony to the effect that the government had definitely and unconditionally promised safe conduct to the border for the members of the Nazi putsch if they would surrender, but the court ruled that the government's promise had nothing to do with the guilt or innocence of the defendants.

Many Writers Barred.
There were 100 foreign correspondents and 1,000 Austrian newspapermen eager to witness the historic trial but the room chosen was scarcely big enough for the 25 spectators and the 18 other persons, including the defendants, who were permitted to enter.

The correspondents, cabling the news to the four corners of the world, literally sat in one another's lap in order to remain within hearing distance of the witness stand. The rough wooden benches creaked under their weight.

It was sweltering hot, and the only persons present who maintained perfect composure were the two men whose lives were at stake.

Meanwhile new bombing outrages harassed Austria's Fascist government today.

Their revolt all but stamped out Nazis are replacing bullets with bombs in a renewed campaign of terror. Explosions were reported in the provinces and in Vienna.

Anti-Nazi Decree.
The first decree of the new government headed by Dr. Schuschnigg aimed a heavy blow at Nazis by ordering them placed in concentration camps at hard labor, their property to be confiscated. The measure was more drastic than any used by Dollfuss in crushing Socialists last winter and spring.

A government communique says it is mopping up the revolt in the provinces, including Carinthia, where Nazis established a stronghold. Many are said to be fleeing into Yugoslavia. Italy's army is encamped nearby on the border.

The government sought to strengthen its forces by naming Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, present vice chancellor and leader of the Fascist home guard, leader of the fatherland front, in succession to Dollfuss.

Stefan Tauschitz, who was recalled as minister to Germany by Dollfuss only three weeks ago to become undersecretary for foreign affairs, has been instructed to return as minister. This is regarded as a peace gesture toward Germany.

Dollfuss' action, along with rumors that a charge d'affaires would be left in control in Berlin, had excited Germany. There were reports she would retaliate by recalling her minister. This was later done, but because he acted as mediator for Nazis.

Action by the cabinet on the acceptance of Franz von Papen as special German envoy is expected today. Approval is likely.

Sensational testimony at the trial of Planetta and Holzweber accused of leading the putsch which resulted in the seizure of the chancellor, is exciting all Vienna.

The defendants testified while their companions in the ill-starred adventure of last Wednesday remained imprisoned in a military barracks.

From "Higher Up"
Both swore their orders came from "higher ups" and they were instructed to avoid violence. But, Holzweber said, when the chancellor had been successfully taken no one came to give him instructions.

Planetta said he shot the little chancellor by accident.

"I was aiming at a big man directly in front of me—I do not know who he was—who had just up his hands at my command," he said. "Someone darted past me or against me from behind and my pistol exploded."

"When I turned to see what had happened I saw the chancellor had been struck x x x I was dismayed when I saw what had happened and ran into a corridor to call for bandages. Then I tried to find a surgeon in the house. Word was sent out for one, but he never arrived."

NEW JAPANESE
PREMIER GIVES VIEWS TO PRESS

Does Not Expect U. S. and Britain to Cut Naval Strength

Tokyo, July 31—(AP)—Japan does not expect America and Great Britain to reduce their naval armaments to Japan's level, Premier Keisuke Okada told foreign correspondents today.

Japan is undecided, he added, whether to abrogate the Washington treaty of 1922, by which the United States, Britain and Japan established a 5-5-3 ratio for capital ships.

At his first meeting with representatives of the world's press, the new premier expressed confidence the 1935 naval conference would succeed.

"In order to reduce the burden of taxation borne by peoples of the world," he said, "naval armaments must be reduced to the smallest proportions possible. Such naval limitation must come from reductions on the part of the heaviest armed nations."

Premier Okada was asked whether this means Japan would demand parity with America and Great Britain, requiring them to reduce to Tokyo's level.

No Sudden Changes.
"It is not in my mind to expect such radical changes as that so suddenly," he replied.

"But I cannot favor the present ratio principle of naval limitation, which hurts the self respect of certain nations," the Premier-Admiral continued.

He hoped some better method could be discovered, but at the present I am not in a position to make definite suggestions on the subject.

Whether Japan should abrogate the Washington treaty is still under consideration but has not yet been settled.

Asked whether he expected a United States-Japanese naval race to result if the 1935 conference fails, Okada answered:

"In the first place I refuse to believe the conference will fail. I fully believe it will be successful. Personally, I sincerely want it to succeed."

"I am unable," he said, "to see any reason why President Roosevelt's journey to Hawaii should be associated with naval questions as was done by the Japanese press."

To Hold Her Islands.
He said Japan is determined to retain islands in the equatorial Pacific held under a mandate of the League of Nations, although her secession from the league is effective next March.

"There is no reason for Japan to relinquish the islands," Premier Okada asserted. "We are determined to retain them chiefly for commercial reasons. We have money invested and are carrying on businesses there."

Asked if he had definite plans to promote friendship between America and Japan, the premier said:

"I believe America and Japan are bound to live in the most intimate friendship. There are no difficult questions between the two countries."

PERISHED IN FLAMES
Grays Lake, Ill., July 31—(AP)—LaVerne Willard, 19, former Libertyville high school track star, perished early Sunday in a fire which destroyed the farm home of Mrs. Sarah Jones, two miles south of here in Lake county.

Willard, son of Chester Willard, farmer near Barrington, was working on the Jones farm for the summer. Members of the household escaped with slight burns.

COUNCIL GETS ORDINANCE FOR SEWAGE SYSTEM

condition. The mayor asked if he planned to present to the council another claim for this condition, to which Hughes replied that he might start action under the workmen's compensation act, if he were compelled to go into the courts to have his claims adjusted.

For Sewage System
Steps toward the early launching of work on the city's sewage disposal system were taken by the council last evening. The mayor stated that he had received the final necessary instruments from Washington, D. C., which were to be acted upon by the council as submitted. These consisted of two specially drafted ordinances and an agreement between the government and the council which were read and placed on file with City Clerk Blake Grover for a period of one week before their passage.

The mayor stated that the total estimated cost of the project was $285,000, the bonds bearing four per cent interest to be held by the government and the city to pay back the sum of $221,000, the federal government making a grant of $64,000 toward the completion of the project under the Public Works Administration program.

He told the council that the federal funds were now available and urged immediate action with a view of starting work as soon as possible this fall after the awarding of the contracts. It is expected that eight months will be required to complete the sewage disposal and sewer extension system with a minimum of 125 men working at all times, the mayor stated.

To Protect Tradesmen
City Attorney Martin Gannon submitted a written report to the council of his investigation into the possibility of drafting an ordinance which would license electricians in Dixon, which was suggested at a previous meeting by Commissioner Loftus. The city attorney's report contended that a similar ordinance had been declared unconstitutional and that no authority could be found for such action.

Commissioner Loftus then stated that he had not desired to impose a license upon electricians alone, but to regulate the practice of transient electricians coming into Dixon and doing work which should be done by the local tradesmen. He told the council that he had been informed that Dixon electricians had not been permitted to do work in Sterling, but that electricians from that city were working here.

Attorney Gannon told the council that this could be regulated under the building code, then added that the code as passed by the council in 1929 contained several very good features, while other might have been changed or eliminated to provide the city of Dixon with a building code which would regulate such conditions. He suggested to the council that a building code be adopted.

Seek New Sidewalk
A petition was presented to the council by property owners residing on East Third street, requesting that a 300 foot strip of sidewalk be ordered constructed and thus prevent the danger of children being compelled to walk in the street. In this connection Commissioner Loftus called the attention of the council to the same condition on the south side of Seventh street between Galena avenue and Ottawa avenue. The city engineer was instructed to conduct a survey at both sites and present his estimates to the council at an early date.

Mayor Dixon reported that officials of the Illinois Central Railway had inspected the crossings at North Galena avenue and Brinton avenue, which the city had complained about and that he had received the assurance that they would be replaced with a most improved type of crossing.

Commissioner Cal G. Tyler of the department of public health and safety reported to the council that he had visited several properties where complaints had been made of the existence of outdoor toilets which should have been connected with sanitary sewers. In a number of instances where the city health officer had investigated it developed that the owners of the property were financially able to make the necessary sewer connections, and the city attorney was instructed to bring about the elimination of these offenses. The commissioner added that in no instance was action to be taken against citizens who were financially unable to meet the cost of the connections.

The council voted to permit J. J. McDonald to erect a sign at Hennepin avenue.

The above style is formal with the head inserted through the neck of the dress and the collar serving as a ruff. The sleeve is cleverly employed as a scarf.

D. U. V. Held Interesting Meeting and A Birthday Supper

Anna Kellogg Baker, Tent No. 61, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, held a most interesting meeting in G. A. R. hall Thursday evening. The meeting was preceded by the usual birthday picnic supper and was very well attended.

Report of the relief committee was very good. Flowers and magazines had been given to sick and shut in friends.

The auditing committee gave an excellent report of the condition of the tent. Plans are being made to entertain the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors annual reunion August 23, in which all orders allied with the Grand Army of the Republic will have a part.

Because of the date of this reunion, the Daughters will hold their next meeting Thursday evening, August 9th, and will meet at the president's home at 5:30 for the birthday supper, after which they will go to the G. A. R. Hall for the regular session.

WILL BE HOSTESSES—

The ladies of the Dixon Country Club will be hostesses on Wednesday to the ladies of the Polo and DeKalb clubs. Bridge and golf will be the amusements and a happy day is expected. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. It is hoped that there will be a good turnout from Dixon.

Watch on Diet May Be Relaxed

By ALICIA HART

(NEA Service Staff Writer.)

It's more than likely that most women get pretty tired of hearing, "Watch your diet!" Well, July and August are two months when you will hear no such thing. You simply don't have to watch it during the hot months. Don't overeat, of course (as if anyone could stand the sight of very much food right now!) but outside of that one rule, do about as you please as far as the daily diet is concerned.

In other words, eat whatever you like—whenver you want it. Do not feel that you have to go to lunch just because it's one o'clock or to dinner because it is seven. If you are not hungry, pass up a meal and wait to eat until your stomach reminds you to order something in the way of nourishment.

Salads, jellied soups, cold, crisp vegetables and fruits appeal to nearly everyone during this kind of weather. However, if you find yourself getting too tired of a cold diet, switch to a full-course hot meal and see how you feel. It may prove to be a Heaven-sent tonic!

Don't forget to drink ten glasses of cool (not ice-cold) liquids a day. Plain water is preferable, if not, then plain fruit juices.

NOTED PHYSICIAN ENTERTAINED IN DIXON—

Mr. and Mrs. George LeFevre of South Dixon, entertained at a chicken dinner Sunday evening, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Tietzen of the famous Tietzen Clinic of Marion, So. Dakota.

Mr. LeFevre took treatments of Dr. Tietzen several years ago, when he was seriously injured and was delighted to see him again. Dr. Tietzen had not forgotten the invitation he received from Mr. and Mrs. LeFevre, if he ever came to Dixon, to stop and have dinner with them. The Tietzens were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Klassen and John Reink.

The Dakota folks were on their way to Chicago, to spend a few days at the Century of Progress.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee LeFevre of Dixon, were also guests for dinner.

Twilight Musicale Sunday Eve

There will be a Twilight musicale Sunday evening, Aug. 5 at 8 o'clock at the Dixon Country Club and it promises to be a most enjoyable evening for all attending. Artists taking part in the concert are Miss Eleanor Hennessey, violinist; John Bennett, boy soprano; Miss Leone Ort, contralto; Miss Elsie Toot, soprano.

WERE CALLERS AT H. L. GEHANT HOME MONDAY—

Mrs. Frank Gehant, Sr., and Mrs. Alex Gehant of West Brooklyn, Walter Gehant of Evanston, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Briggs of Glen Center, Neb., were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gehant, 718 East Second street, Dixon, on Monday.

LADIES AID TO MEET THURSDAY AFTERNOON—

The Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the church. The hostesses for the meeting are Mrs. Howard Beam, Mrs. Otto Beier, Mrs. John Bohnstiel, Mrs. James Boyer.

Luncheon Honors Visiting Guests

Mrs. Barre Lennon of Dixon and Mrs. Edgar Crawford of Nachusa entertained with a charming luncheon today at the Rice Tea Room, honoring Mrs. A. A. Bastar, of Berwyn, Ill., mother of Mrs. Harry Edwards, and Mrs. Frank Borton of Berkeley, California, mother of Mrs. Frank Edwards.

HAS BEEN GUEST OF MISS GEISENHEIMER—

Miss Geisenheimer has been entertaining over the week end Mrs. M. E. Plummer of Los Angeles, Cal., who is returning to her home after an extended European tour, having visited many interesting countries, the Holy Land, France, Switzerland and Germany. Mrs. Plummer was most enthusiastic over her first visit to Dixon and was greatly impressed by the lovely scenery along Rock River and the beauty of Lowell Park, the Pines and the surrounding country.

LEAVE FOR OUTING IN THE NORTH—

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Johnson and son Willis, left today for Fond du Lac, Wis., for a brief visit with friends before going to Long Lake, Wis., for a fishing trip. Aug. 11th they will return to Dixon for a day, at which time Mrs. Johnson and Willis will go to Minneapolis for a visit before joining Mr. Johnson, in St. Louis Mo.

The Johnsons have rented an apartment at 7521 Buckingham Drive, St. Louis.

OH, all the time my plant hand Had rested in your own, Pledged to your fealty, my dear, And to your love alone.

YOU were a restless sort of lad With eyes on sailing ships, On soldier men who marched to drums, And gipsy women's lips.

BUT now that I've withdrawn my hand And you must reach to touch The fingers that I, too, admit Clung to you overmuch.

YOU never, never wander off! Desire to hold your love Has made me see how pleasantly The best steel lines a glove!

CHICAGO SCHOOL BOARD CAN SELL BONDS TO GOV'T.

Illinois Supreme Court Upholds Validity of $28,000,000 Issue

Springfield, Ill., July 31.—(AP)—There is no legal reason, the Illinois supreme court held today, why the Chicago board of education should not try to sell a $28,000,000 bond issue to the federal government.

A writ of mandamus was issued, ordering City Comptroller R. B. Upham to countersign the bonds. The friendly suit was brought to test several legal points in the plan to pay Chicago's school teachers by borrowing money from the federal government.

The vacation opinion, filed at the court clerk's office this morning, was written by Chief Justice Jones and also signed by Justices Stone, Orr, Herrick and Shaw. It did not state the attitude of Justice de Young and Farthing.

"If it can be granted," the opinion said, "that school lands may be sold and the proceeds used for school purposes, no good reason can be given for denying the power to mortgage lands to obtain money to use for the same purpose."

"The board, under legislative sanction, may authorize the sale, lease or incumbrance of any school lands not in use or necessary for school buildings or playgrounds purposes."

The court held that if school authorities are empowered to sell lands, they are also authorized to mortgage property not needed for school purposes.

Separate Corporations
One of the major points decided is that the city of Chicago and the Chicago board of education are separate corporations and hence have separate bonding powers.

In bringing the suit before the supreme court, Upham raised the point that the bond issue should not be included as part of the total bonded indebtedness of the city of Chicago. The school board since 1917 has been a separate corporation, the court held.

Approval also was given the definite purpose for which the bond receipts would be spent, $25,000,000 to pay back salaries to Chicago teachers or $28,000,000 to pay salaries and meet other obligations.

The plan is to sell the bond issue to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

EMPLOYEES ELATED.

Chicago, July 31.—(AP)—Seventeen thousand employees of the board of education, more than six months behind in their salaries, today anticipated payment in full.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, was elated by the action of the state supreme court in removing the last apparent obstacle to the procurement of $24,447,240 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and declared negotiations to close the deal would be started immediately.

The high court, in a decision handed down at Springfield, upheld the legality of the issue to be used as security and ordered City Comptroller R. B. Upham of Chicago to countersign the bonds.

Jesse Jones, R. F. C. chairman, was expected here tomorrow to survey the properties tendered as collateral.

If his approval is forthcoming, papers will be rushed to Washington in order that the money may be obtained with minimum delay. Tentative plans were made to put

FARMERS OF LEE EXEMPTED BY A NEW AAA RULING

Minimum Contract in Wheat Acreage is Waived by Order

Farmers of La Salle, Bureau, Marshall, Putnam, Lee, Grundy and many other counties of the state, who are taking part in the government's wheat reduction program are exempt from that provision of the contract which provided that they plant at least 54 per cent of their base average of wheat next fall.

In a telegram to heads of the wheat control associations in the various counties of the state today, George Marell, chief of the wheat section, Agricultural Adjustment Administration at Washington designated the Illinois counties to be exempt from the minimum requirement, according to officials.

This ruling means that farmers in these exempted counties taking part in the wheat reduction program will not have to sow any wheat if they so desire yet they will still receive the benefit payments.

Decision of the government to exempt these sections from the minimum requirement came after farmers pointed out the danger of crop destruction by chinch bugs. The wheat crop in La Salle and surrounding counties was a total loss because of chinch bug infestation this spring.

Under the original contracts the participating farmers agreed to reduce the average wheat acreage by 15 per cent and at the same time they agreed to plant at least 54 per cent of their average.

Brazil Nuts Add Variety to Menu

By Caroline B. King
Home Economics and Culinary Authority

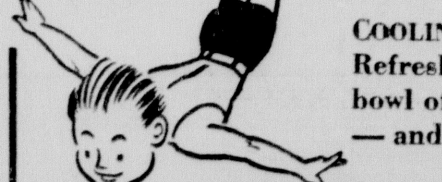

WHAT a lot of the good things we have to eat we owe to those sturdy old sea captains who scouted over the seas and into foreign countries looking for appetizing edibles for everyone who appreciates fine eating. Long, long ago, they began their missionary work of bringing back delicious to enrich our tables. Among the importations from South America came the Brazil nut, with its delicious flavor, and so rich in all the necessary food qualities, that we are now using it more and more in modern cookery, not only as a garnish but as a main ingredient to add distinction to our meals.

Brazil nuts are especially useful in all kinds of cookery. They are a distinct addition to salads, desserts and sweetmeats. They may also be salted, roasted, deviled and prepared in several ways to serve as hors d'oeuvres and appetizers. Added to these uses, the Brazil nut because of its valuable food properties makes a most satisfactory meat substitute and may be used in combination with other foods as the piece de resistance for many a warm weather meal. For instance try the following recipes:

Sweet Potato and Brazil Nut Croquettes. (Illustrated above.) Boil and mash well, enough sweet potatoes to make 2 cupsful, add 1 tablespoonful of salt, 1 tablespoonful of butter, 1 beaten egg and ¼ cupful of chopped Brazil nuts. Moisten slightly with cream or milk, form into croquettes, roll in beaten egg, then in fine crumbs and place in a hot oven to brown. If preferred, these croquettes may be molded into the shape of pears, dipped in egg and crumbs and fried in deep boiling fat. Garnish with parsley, using pieces of the stalks for stems, and serve very hot.

Brazilian Loaf: Chop or grind fine enough Brazil nuts to make 1 cupful, add 2 cupsful of soft bread crumbs, ½ cupful of finely chopped celery, ¼ cupful of shredded green pepper, 1 tablespoonful of minced parsley, 1 cupful of cold mashed potatoes, and 2 well-beaten eggs, season with 1 teaspoonful of salt, ¼ teaspoonful each of pepper and paprika, mix all well, make into a loaf, place in a greased pan and bake 35 to 40 minutes. Roast shelled Brazil nuts in the oven until brown, then rub between towels to remove the skin, roll in unbeaten egg white, spread on a pan and sprinkle lightly with salt. Place in a cool oven to dry.

Inheritance of Mental Defects: I

How much mental defect is hereditary? This question has a number of important social implications. For the answer given must serve to guide us in what we do to prevent mental deficiency.

If the bulk of mental deficiency (amentia) is the result of bad heredity, then we should seek to abolish it by genetic or eugenic means, that is, by the controlling of the interbreeding of defective hereditary strains. On the other hand, if bad environment is responsible, then, of course, we must act in other ways.

Merchants are Warned Against Men Posing as Agents

The Dixon Chamber of Commerce warns merchants and business men against a gang of sharpers operating in the vicinity of Dixon and working what is known as the "Lindbergh racket." These vice men, have fleeced hundreds of dollars from business men in the Chicago area and are now believed to be working the smaller towns hereabouts.

The racketeers call on small shopkeepers and introduce themselves as government secret service operatives. "We have been given to understand that a great deal of the Lindbergh ransom money is in circulation hereabouts," is the way they get into the good graces of the shop keeper. Then, showing a bogus badge or credentials, they demand permission to inspect the money in the cash register. They go over the money very carefully and finally select the biggest bill.

"We must take this for evidence," they say, declaring that the bill they have selected is one given by Lindbergh as ransom for his slain child. The men then give the merchant a receipt, telling him that it is redeemable at the post office. After thanking him and telling him that he has assisted them materially in their search for the Lindbergh kidnapers, they go on their way.

The fact of the matter is that the receipt is not worth the paper that it is written on and the merchant is the loser by whatever amount of money he allowed the intruders to take.

The serial numbers of the Lindbergh money are on record at banks and at the postoffice and a checkup of bills can be made with little trouble. Should the racketeers pay a visit to merchants here the police should be notified at once.

To Make Mattresses for the Unemployed

Chicago, July 31.—(AP)—Relief workers will manufacture 45,000 mattresses for the needy unemployed in relief centers of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission in August, it was announced Monday.

The federal surplus relief corporation has allotted more than 2 million pounds of cotton and nearly 400,000 yards of mattress ticking to the state and workers on the relief rolls will start manufacturing in 29 centers Aug. 1. The commission expects to turn out one mattress for every three families on relief in Illinois.

A NEW NEWSPAPER.
This morning we received our copy of the nation's newest weekly newspaper, The Blue Eagle.

The Blue Eagle is a five-column tabloid, printed at the Government Printing Office. It is mailed with no postage charge, coming, as does all NRA publicity matter, bearing the "Official Business" seal.

We cannot help but wonder just who is paying for our subscription, to this new tabloid. Does the cost of publication come from the pockets of those who have signed codes and is thus transferred eventually to the purchaser of NRA goods, or does it use a more direct route and come directly to Johnny Taxpayer?

We cannot help but regret that the Journal is not in a position to mail an unlimited number of newspapers postage free. Think of the service we could do the Farmer City trade area and our advertisers. But we happen to be an independent newspaper, dealing in news and are not allowed the rights of the holy.

We have seen NRA fail in places and we have seen it do good in other places, but when it comes to the publication of a newspaper with free distribution—there are limits.—The Farmer City Journal.

HARD TO BELIEVE.
The complaint of Dr. Gobbels, Germany's minister of propaganda, that foreign correspondents in the Reich are not telling the world the truth about the bloody events of recent days, would sound a whole lot better if the German press were not compelled to operate under a strict censorship.

Newspaper readers inside of Germany have no way of knowing whether they are being told the truth about what has happened. No newspaper dares print anything that will offend the government.

Inevitably, therefore, foreign correspondents in Germany cannot rely on published accounts of current events. They can accept nothing at its face value.

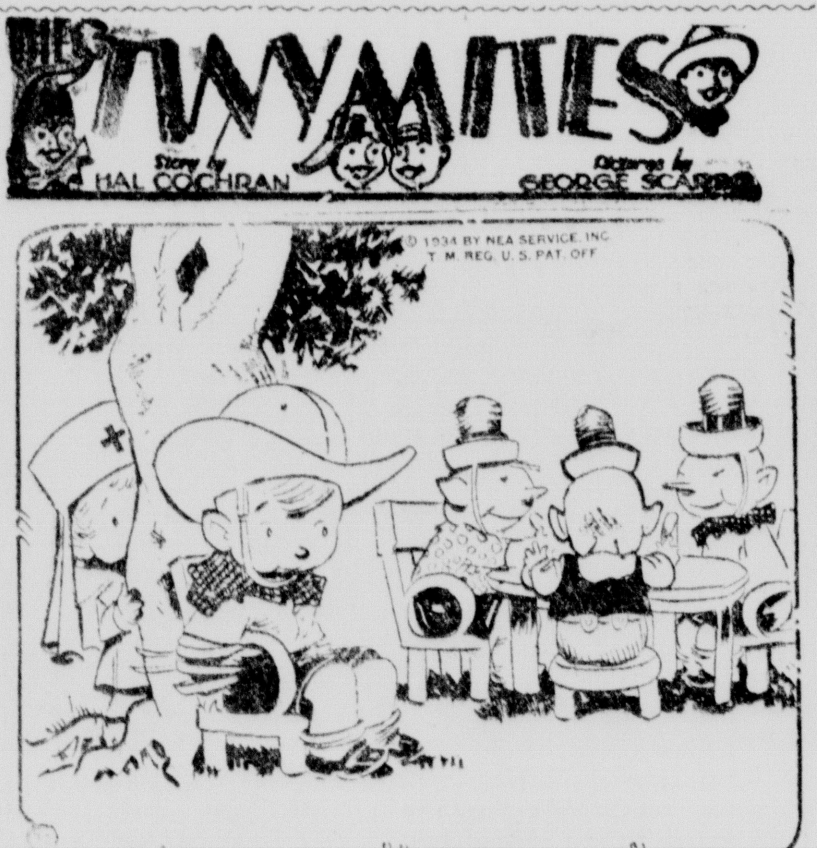

Any government which imposes a censorship on the organs of fact and opinion within its borders has only itself to blame if the outside world sometimes gets a warped picture of what is going on.

I've often said that men would take a cussing or a cold or a rail off your fence, but would not take good advice.—Gov. William Murray of Oklahoma, defeated in the primaries.

The hardest thing about taxation is the difficulty to get anything done, because everyone wants taxation to be on the other fellow.—Prof. Thomas H. Reed of the University of Michigan.

The Meanies Men were quite surprised, as they looked on and realized that Scouty really relished eating gumdrops by the score.

"To think," said one, "we got a scare when they came sailing through the air. The Cheerful Chaps have thrown us food. This is a funny war."

"Oh, yes?" another one replied. "It's well that we all ran to hide when those things sailed into our camp. I'm certain of one thing."

"If we had stood right up and stopped one of those things, we would have dropped. I only hope the Cheerful Chaps have no more, now, to fling."

"Well, little man, if you ask me, no more big gumdrops will we see," said Scouty. "I feel certain that your enemy's run out."

Why don't you Meanies have a feast? Come on, taste one gumdrop, at least. Before you're through, you'll all be eating lots of them, no doubt."

The Meanies seemed to like this plan. Two of them very promptly

Demonstration Seemed to Have Lessened Nervous Strain

New York, July 31.—(AP)—Now and then life gets sort of thick and bothersome for William Harrison Dempsey and when the old champion gets to feeling that way he's liable to cause someone some trouble.

He's bothered now, and the fellow who has all the proof of what he needs is Tony Galento, a veritable monster of a heavyweight, though much of it is about his waistline.

Dempsey was saying yesterday that he hadn't had a real night's sleep in five nights what with keeping ready every moment to rush over to the Foleyling hospital where Mrs. Dempsey is expecting a baby any time now. Then too at 41, with a waistline that's beginning to swell and a head full of boxing problems and Max Baer, this heat wave hasn't helped any, either.

So Jack thought he'd take his mind off all his cares for a few moments and see how Galento, a pretty good heavyweight, was getting along in his workout at Stillman's gymnasium. Galento, in whom Dempsey is interested, was doing fair.

"Now I'll show you," he said. "When you throw a left hook short," yelled Dempsey from the side of the ring. "What are you trying to do—mow hay? Short, I said, short. Here, wait a minute."

He called for a set of ring lights and a shirt and he tied on the heavy gloves. He didn't bother taking off his street shoes. And he climbed right in there with Galento.

"Now I'll show you," he said. "When you throw a left hook, make it short, like this!"

Dempsey's first disappeared in Galento's abdomen and Tony looked a little sick. This went on for two rounds of two minutes each. At the end the Newark heavyweight's lips were split and he was backing up all over the place. Dempsey patted his shoulder and climbed out.

"I feel a lot better," he said. "A fellow should do this more often. I guess I'll come back tomorrow and teach him some more."

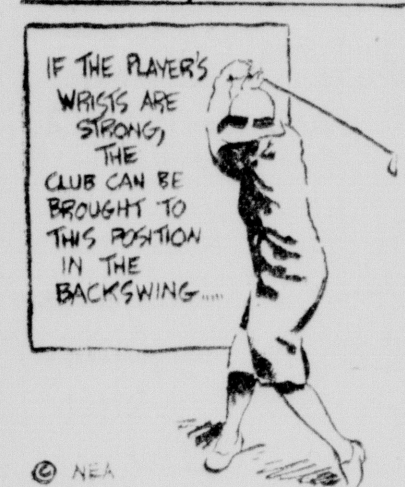

Galento looked like maybe if Dempsey did, he wouldn't.

Barney Ross will receive 40 per cent of the gate receipts, and Jimmy McLarnin 20 for their return fifteen round match in the Madison Square Garden bowl for the New York American Christmas Fund Sept. 6. The site was chosen only yesterday, although the fighters were signed some time ago. The prize scale runs from $2 to $10. Only one double champion of the lightweight and welter ring ever has seen a double jinx at the bowl. Not only have the past nine welterweight champions lost their titles in the first round, but Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera lost their heavyweight titles there and McLarnin his welterweight crown. No champion has yet won in the bowl ring.

With Art Lasky of Minneapolis signed to box Steve Hamas Sept. 27, the heavyweight eliminations to determine Max Baer's opponent next summer wait only the outcome of Max Schmeling's bout with Walter Neusel in Germany to determine the second match. The winner will tackle Primo Carnera.

GOLF

By Art Krenz

One frequently hears that women golfers make the mistake of overwinging. I could mention many leading feminine golfers who take full, free swings with great success.

The source of the trouble does not result from overwinging itself, but from the fact that many women golfers lack strength in their wrists to control the swing.

This means the strong wrists are an aid to good golf and the player who has weak wrists should cut down the backswing. Don't try to take the club back to a point beyond which the wrists will lose control.

SEVEN HURT IN COLLISION

Springfield, Ill. (AP)—An automobile collision resulted in injuries to seven persons, including John P. Stout, head of the state division of animal husbandry. He suffered a fractured arm and jaw, and a dislocated shoulder. Five of the injured were members of his family. John Yates, Bloomington, driver of the other machine, received cuts and bruises.

PLUM HOLLOW'S GOLFERS GIVEN BEATING SUNDAY

Dixon Men Found Long Twin City Course Not to Liking

Plum Hollow golfers found the long course at the Twin City country club not to their liking and took a severe drubbing Sunday afternoon at the hands of the country club team by the score of 45 to 4. J. Krug with an 89 won half of Dixon's points when he defeated Reider 2 to 1. R. Krug won one point from Dean Bickford and Bransby won one point from Paul Loos.

T. G. Scheid must have established a record when he defeated Gomeran of Dixon 17 of the 18 holes. The local star missed a three foot putt on the thirteenth hole to prevent him from making it a complete whitewash, as his opponent halved that hole.

McLennan shot the low score of the afternoon 39-41-80 with Scheid one stroke behind. Parent had 82 and Don Gehring 84.

EXPERTSWONDER HOW PARKER HAS HELD NO. 8 RANK

Young Tennis Player's Game Has Fallen Off Inexplicably

Southampton, N. Y., July 31.—(AP)—The experts are beginning to wonder when—if at all—Frankie Parker, the 18-year-old Lawrenceville student, is going to justify this season his present national ranking at No. 8.

In two straight tournaments he last one at Seabright. Parker has been eliminated by Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C., whose name doesn't appear until No. 23, on the national list. Today Frankie was in the second round of the 44th annual invitation tournament of the Meadow Club, but only after a stiff 6-1, 8-6 battle with Elmer Griffin, veteran Californian.

In the second round today Parker was matched against Donald Budge of Oakland, Cal. No. 1 among the juniors and with Parker, one of the three youngsters on whom high hopes for future Davis Cup teams have been placed. Gen. Makin, intercollegiate champion from Los Angeles, third of the young trio, played E. Ramey Donovan, former Fordham star.

All the seeded players advanced safely through the opening round. In the second round today other pairings were Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, N. J., against J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J.; Henry Prussoff, Seattle, against Dwight F. Davis, Jr., of Washington, son of the Davis Cup donor; Bryan (Bittsy) Grant, Atlanta, against Robert Bryan, Chattanooga; Bergeley Bell against William Reese of Atlanta; Jack Tidball, former intercollegiate champion, against Martin Buxby, Miami, Fla.; and Wilmer Hines against E. W. Feibleman, New York.

BLOWOUT CAUSED DEATH

Marselles, Ill. (AP)—When their car blew a tire and rolled down an embankment, Robert Cahill of Chicago was killed and Harry L. Kowalski, the driver and Horlan Duffy, both of Chicago, were taken to a hospital in Ottawa, seriously hurt.

WES FERRELL IS GOD-SEND TO RED SOX SLAB STAFF

Ex-Indian Has Done a Lot to Keep Team in the Running

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

Judging by results so far, the purchase of Wesley Ferrell, who refused to play this season for the salary Cleveland offered him, was about the best stroke of business the Boston Red Sox have put out.

With Lefty Grove still disabled and other fingers not going so well, Ferrell's arm has been an important factor in keeping the Sox in the American League's first division. Boston was safe in fourth place today and only 2 1/2 games behind the Indians despite Cleveland's recent spurt which has netted 14 victories in 18 games, and Ferrell's record alone showed triumphs enough to keep the Sox away from the second-division leaders.

Wins 9, Loses 1

Since joining the club at the end of May, Ferrell has appeared on the mound 15 times, starting 12 games, and yesterday's 8-0 triumph over Washington was his ninth of the season against one defeat.

It was a bit like picking on crickets when Wes was touched for ten hits. With a makeshift lineup, as the result of injuries, Washington failed to offer a real threat until the ninth inning, then Ferrell finished the game by whiffing Ossie Bluege with the bases loaded. Three Senator regulars, Heinie Manush, Joe Kuhel and Johnny Stone, were missing and as a result the utility infielder, Red Kress, was in right field, Rookie John Gill in left and a catcher, Luke Sewell, on first.

Browns Whip Sox

The deal returned the Senators to sixth place after they had advanced to fifth Sunday. The St. Louis Browns, with one of the late rallies that have marked their progress under Roger Hornsby's management, came from behind to whip the White Sox 4 to 3 and take fifth by a full game.

Trailing 3-1 after Chicago had nicked Dick Coffman for three hits and as many runs in the fourth, the Browns tied the count when Sam West socked a home run with one aboard in the eighth. The winning counter came as a ninth-inning gift from Luke Appling, who fumbled Oscar Melillo's batted ball with the bases loaded.

The other American League clubs and the entire National League had a day off.

A kindness to opposing teams rarely shown by the Detroit Tigers, which resulted in six unearned runs, yesterday gave the Cardinals a 2 to 1 victory in an inter-league exhibition at Battle Creek, Mich. The game was sponsored by the Battle Creek Area of Boy Scouts of America. The Cards open a series at Chicago today.

Cliff retired from the game at St. Louis yesterday in the ninth inning with a bruised arm. Al Simmons, left fielder for the Sox, also was taken out of action when he hurt his hand sliding for the plate in the first inning. In this afternoon's game Hornsby will use George Blaeholder and Sam Jones will furnish the opposition.

DROUTH WORLD- WIDE FEDERAL SURVEY CLAIMS

Southern Hemisphere Is Hit; Economics Bu- reau Declares

Growing crops in practically all countries of the northern hemisphere have been damaged by the prolonged drought, reports the Foreign Agricultural Service of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, in a summary of the world drought situation. Even in the southern hemisphere, particularly in Argentina and Australia, recent reports indicate that lack of moisture during recent months has so dried out the soil that seeding operations, which are now being completed, have been made extremely difficult in many districts.

Reports of drought in Russia have been numerous this year, and there are indications of a considerable reduction in yields in the important wheat-growing areas of southern Russia, particularly for early-sown crops, according to the bureau's reports. As indicative of smaller grain crops in Russia this year it is to be noted that the government recently announced substantial reductions in the quantities of grain which state farms will have to deliver to the government. These reductions were announced for all of the important wheat-producing regions except the middle Volga, western Siberia, Kazakhstan and central Asia.

The drought has also damaged bread and feed grain crops in the countries of the Danube basin. Hungary and Rumania report unusually low crops for both wheat and rye this year. In Yugoslavia and Bulgaria the rye crops will be only slightly below those for 1933 but the wheat crop will be much lower.

The Balgrade office of the bureau states that practically no rye will be exported this season from Bulgaria, Rumania and Yugoslavia and very little, if any, from Hungary because of the reduced rye and wheat yields, resulting largely from drought conditions. The carryover of wheat in Bulgaria, Hungary, and Yugoslavia, however, is expected to enable the countries to export small quantities of wheat during the 1934-35 season. The 1934 wheat crop in Rumania has been greatly reduced by the drought. That country has practically no wheat carryover and exports were recently prohibited.

The oats and barley crops in the Danubian basin will be much lower than in 1933 because of drought conditions but a good corn crop is expected because of frequent showers at timely intervals since the beginning of June.

Drought damage has been particularly severe in the countries of Central Europe where both bread and feed grains have suffered greatly. Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Austria were favored with light to heavy rains recently but they came too late to offset the damage already done by the prolonged drought according to reports received in the bureau.

The 1934 rye crops especially in Germany and Poland have been greatly reduced by the drought. There is no likelihood, however, that the reduced crops this year will result in a shortage of bread in Central Europe since the principal rye-producing countries have considerable stocks of wheat and rye on hand from the large 1933 crop. The short rye crop, however, is expected to have a serious effect on the livestock industry in Central Europe where large quantities are used annually for feed. During periods of low wheat and rye crops, the tendency is to feed less rye to livestock in order to maintain adequate supplies for human consumption.

Feed crops in Germany and Czechoslovakia have suffered heavily from drought, and a feed shortage is now threatened in both of these countries. Germany faces an especially serious situation because of the drought damage to her feed grains, hay and potato crops. The shortage in these crops, together with a short rye crop, is likely to bring about a material reduction in livestock numbers in Germany.

The prolonged drought is also becoming a factor of serious concern in Canada this year. While a considerably larger wheat crop was expected in Canada this year, the continuation of the drought together with damage from frost in some northern districts and ravages of grasshoppers in some southern regions has steadily reduced originally anticipated yields. Cereal crops in the prairie provinces have reached the advanced stage when heavy rains are needed. Most of the wheat crops in the head and some is filling. The earliest fields are already turning color. Late sown cereals will need an abundance of moisture to maintain their condition. Pastures in most of the prairie provinces are dry and unless abundant rain falls soon a serious shortage of winter feed will develop.

The drought has also affected the Chinese rice crop. The latest dispatches from the bureau's Shanghai office report a reduction of at least 20 per cent in the Chinese rice crop this year because of the drought. The drought damage has been particularly severe in the large area of East Central China in the provinces bordering on the Yangtze valley. Drought damage, however, is also reported from several areas in north and south China, particularly in the northern provinces of Shensi and Shansi and on the island of Hainan off the coast of south China. Plans for large-scale drought relief are now under way in China.

The atmospheric conditions that brought on the devastating drought in the United States this year were present to a striking degree on the European continent, according to meteorologists of the U. S. Weather Bureau. Over both continents high-pressure areas prevailed over the western sections and low-pressure areas over the eastern sections. With no interaction between air masses of different temperatures, the meteorologists explain, no precipitation is possible, and this year there were practically no eastward movements of air masses on either sides of the Atlantic.

Drought first hit the British Isles as early as February, according to the Meteorological Magazine of the British Air Ministry, published in London. No rain or snow fell for nearly three weeks. The same condition was present in parts of Switzerland, and the sun melted much of the snow below 3,000 feet in the Alps.

The April rainfall was below normal in parts of Sweden and in a large parts of central Europe. Middle-of-the-month temperatures were abnormally high in many places. This abnormally warm weather caused more melting of the snow in the Alps, bringing many European rivers far above their normal levels for that time of the year.

Through May the rainfall continued deficient in central Europe. The British Isles were very dry, with absolute drought conditions the latter half of May in the east and southeast and in the Midlands. Southern Russia also suffered from drought in May. Southern Sweden and northern Norway, on the other hand, had rainfalls in excess of normal and Hungary had plentiful rains about the middle of the month.

June was an extremely dry period through practically the entire length and breadth of Europe, according to the charts used by Weather Bureau meteorologists in making their daily forecasts. These charts show high-pressure areas persisting over the British Isles and western Europe with low-pressure areas over eastern Europe throughout almost the entire month. Not until the first of July did these conditions change enough to bring rain. Abundant rains have fallen over central Europe from the Balkan states up through Poland. In fact, precipitation has been so great over Poland as to bring the rivers up to the flood stage. These drought-relieving rains did not reach the British Isles until about the middle of the month.

W. E. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

There is one place I have been wishing I might take you during this hot weather—into an egg freezer, where the temperature is below zero and the pipes are coated with frost.

We would find it stacked to the ceiling with large, shiny cans. These cans are filled with eggs. They have been broken out of the shell, the yolks separated from the whites in some cases, in others mixed together. And they have been frozen—not just cooled, you understand, but frozen—as hard as a cake of ice.

A good many of the eggs you sell in the spring are broken out of the shell and put in cans. Some of you may have an egg-breaking plant in your own town. There are a good many of them in the middle west.

In the spring, as you know, a great many more eggs are produced than can be used at the time. The surplus must be kept for seasons of low production.

Eggs to be used in the home are, of course, stored in the shell. They cannot be frozen because that would break the shell, but they are kept in refrigerated rooms where the temperature is from 29 to 31 degrees.

Hold Eggs at Low Temperatures. Eggs held at 37.6 degrees will be as fresh at the end of a hundred days as three-day-old eggs that have been exposed to a temperature of 98.6 degrees.

So you see how necessary it is to keep eggs cool if you want to keep them fresh. None of the freshness is lost when eggs are frozen.

Food manufacturers much prefer to use canned eggs. The reason is better, they are more convenient to use, and there is no waste. Imagine having to stop to break and separate eggs in a bakery where they make a thousand cakes a day. And think of the waste if a manufacturer of salad dressing had to buy shell eggs. Who would he do with the whites? And, on this

Making Most of Higher Prices for Eggs in Fall

By F. L. SANFORD
(Formerly Professor Poultry
Extension Penn. State College.)

Every poultryman and farmer can remember accurately that every fall egg prices mount and what wouldn't anyone give to have good egg production from their flock at that time? The reason for prices being high is due to the fact that there is a scarcity of eggs. The law of supply and demand operates very accurately and fall egg prices demonstrate this law. Since it is the scarcity of eggs that causes the price to advance, the obvious thing to do if one would cash in on these prices, is to get good fall egg production.

To do this one must obviously start at the time that the chicks are hatched, but much can be done from now on to get them into production by the time they should be fully developed. Too many farmers during the rush of harvest neglect to feed growing mash regularly or at all. Growing mash builds the frame of the body, in other words, it is the structure that this egg factory will operate in. The most economical feeding program is, therefore, to supply a growing mash generously and in such places that the birds will eat of it freely. One or two mash hoppers in the shade of a tree or under some artificial shade is a good investment.

Have the drinking water handy to the mash hoppers so that the birds will not be forced to take a long trip between bites and between drinks.

When apples commence to fall and some birds are prone to fill up on them rather than eating mash, it may be well to keep them confined a portion of the day.

Make sure that the parasites that lower resistance and retard growth are eliminated. Foremost among these are intestinal worms and red mites that harbor in the poultry houses and suck the blood at night.

Careful attention to summer management will mean proper development of pullets, making better fall egg production with corresponding increased income.

other hand, what would a baker, making angel food cakes, do with the yolks?

208,000,000 Dozen Eggs Frozen. You can see the reason for the frozen eggs.

Hotels and restaurants use them, too, as well as the food manufacturers.

They are convenient for custards, meringues, pies, ice cream, scrambled eggs or omelettes.

More than two hundred and fifty million pounds of eggs are canned and frozen every year. That represents two hundred and eight million dozens—which is a lot of eggs.

And it's a pleasure to think how cold they are!

Sincerely yours,

SMALL GRAIN IS HELD SOLUTION OF PASTURAGE

May be Leading Emergency Fall Pastures in Drought Sections

Wheat, rye, barley and oats, primarily grown for grain, may be the leading emergency pasture crops in drought areas this fall and winter, relied upon for the production of winter roushage. A survey of the dry states by men from the U. S. Department of Agriculture shows the 1934 hay crop at least 20 per cent below normal. Permanent pastures have not been so poor in 50 years, with the result that many farmers have been forced to use hay fields for summer pasture.

The small grains may be grown in almost any part of the United States and with a fair amount of moisture in the late summer and fall months, they will make a quick, abundant growth of succulent pasture, relished by all kinds of livestock. Such emergency and supplemental pastures do best on fairly level, well-drained soils of moderate fertility. Apparently plenty of seed will be available, especially of wheat. Seed of locally adapted varieties or recommended pasture alone is the object, it is customary to sow wheat, rye, oats and barley thicker than where a grain crop is desired. A thick stand produces a heavy turf which protects the soil from trampling in wet weather and provides more feed.

Winter wheat and rye given enough moisture not only can make good late fall pasture, but will live through the winter and be ready for early spring grazing, except in the states north of Iowa and Nebraska where spring wheat customarily is sown. Similarly, fall sown oats and winter barley make good late pastures and in the Southern States survive the cold months and come along rapidly in the spring. They are not so hardy as wheat and rye and are more likely to winterkill.

In regions where it is necessary to circumvent the Hessian fly, wheat and rye can be sown after the locally "safe" date, and still provide a month or more of pasture before winter sets in. Even with plenty of moisture in the late summer, it probably would not pay to hurry small grain pastures by sowing before early September, as the seed does not germinate and grow well in hot weather. Also, if started early, the plants make too much growth above the ground and are thus more likely to winterkill.

The practice of "dusting in" winter wheat that is, sowing it in soil without moisture, is not recommended by the Department, despite the emergency. The chances of getting a good stand and pasture if rains do come are offset by the possibilities of losing the seeds as well as failure to produce pasture. Light rains may fall sufficient to germinate the seed, but not enough to keep the wheat growing. Or, a hard, dashing rain may form a crust that the young plants cannot break through.

Another plant used extensively in the southeastern states for fall-seeded winter pastures is Italian ryegrass. It is tender, leafy and very palatable to livestock. It is not so hardy as winter wheat or rye and for this reason and because the seed is not always available, cannot be recommended so generally as the small grains.

The common or hairy vetch and winter peas may be fall-seeded in mixtures with rye or oats for winter and especially early pastures in the southeastern states, but like Italian ryegrass are not so adaptable to the middle west for emergency fall, winter and spring pasture as wheat, oats, rye and barley.

ROCHELLE NEWS

Rochelle—The City of Rochelle has been granted a $71,000 loan for the construction of a sewage disposal plant from PWA funds, being the fourth city in northern Illinois to secure a loan from this source for this purpose. The other three are Dixon, Sycamore and Mt. Morris. A fifth city, Freeport, is seeking PWA funds for a three-fold project, which includes construction of a disposal plant, installation of intercepting sewers, and changing the Pecatonica River course.

Only a few days before the grant was made to Rochelle, city officials here had been informed by PWA officials that funds were almost exhausted and their petition for funds probably would not be granted. Therefore, the allotment for a sewage treatment plant came rather as a surprise.

Rochelle at present has a sewage treatment plant which was constructed many years ago. With in recent years the plant has been inadequate to meet the needs of the city.

Plans for the new plant were drawn up two years ago, and much of the preliminary work necessary before construction can be started has been disposed of. It is expected that the work will be started as soon as the loan reaches Rochelle.

The city officials will have to submit their plans as to the construction of the plant and its specifications to the State Engineer. When the State Engineer has approved the plans, the grant will be received here. Work on the plans has been started. Of the $71,000 at least 50 per cent will be paid out for labor, which will be entirely local. It is estimated that 25 men will be employed for a period of four or five months in erecting the plant.

The PWA project will give Rochelle a modern disposal plant and equipment for at least fifteen years of continuous growth.

Harold P. Stevens is assisting Fred Southwick in the National Reemployment offices here and will take over the work under B. E. Maas, manager, as soon as he has become thoroughly familiar with the work. Mr. Stevens has been a lieutenant in charge of a CCC camp and has had considerable experience in similar work.

South Main street, extending from the bridge and past the Rochelle Town & Country Club, is being repaired under the supervision of Commissioner T. L. Schade. The street has been blocked and members of the Country Club are using the Tigan driveway as the entrance to the golf course. Funds are being furnished by the State from the gasoline tax. Mr. Schade states that the opening day of the new road will be August 23rd, the day of the Farmers' Picnic.

Living Our Everyday Lives

HOLDING UP THE SKY.
By Joseph Fort Newton.

In one of the plays of Bernard Shaw a cowboy sits down by the side of the road on a hot day, all worn out and ready to give up.

The reason for his weariness, as he discovers when he examines himself, is that he has been running the while universe single-handed and alone, and it turned out to be too big a job for one man.

Very wisely he decides to lay off a bit, take a holiday, and let the Almighty take charge of affairs and try his hand at it. Of course it sounds foolish when put in that way, but that is what it amounts to with many of us, when he take stock of our dark moods and face facts.

As one of the wise old saints put it, there is such a thing as an irreligious solicitude for God, which is really a loss of faith in Him. It is a kind of anxious, worried fear less God be unable, or unwilling, to do his work, and the burden of holding up the sky falls on us.

Again it sounds ridiculous, but that is precisely my point—we take in too much territory, assume responsibility for things beyond our knowledge, much less our control. Such a state of mind is not only foolish but futile, and it may easily be fatal and unfit us for our work.

Playing God is hard work, as the cowboy learned; it wears us out and tears our nerves to tatters. It doubles the load of life, increases its strain, and robs it of the joy which it ought to give us. There are cares enough without taking on more than we were meant to carry.

It is helpful to remember that the sky begins at the top of the ground; we do not have to hold it up. We live embosomed in it every day. We breathe it every hour; we do our work in it lightly or sadly.

In other words, faith in God is not soft sentiment, but sound sense. William James used to say, it is a kind of holiday in the midst of life and at the end of it, lest we break under the weight of it.

Our business is to do our work with the clearest vision and the surest stroke, lift our share of the drum and Power other and greater than ourselves—God will hold up the sky.
